

Walter Scott & Partners Doctoral Studentship 2021-2022

Funding for 4th Year Oxford Students in Partnership with Global History of Capitalism project and the Oxford Centre for Global History

The Global History of Capitalism (GHoC) research project is pleased to offer one or more single-year, fully-funded, 4th year studentships for doctoral students already studying within the University of Oxford for the 2021/2022 academic year. Now in its fourth year, the GHoC research project promotes the inter-disciplinary study of global capitalism. Students will join a research community within the Oxford Centre for Global History and will also migrate to Brasenose College as part of the research project. These studentships are open to any D.Phil. discipline as long as the applicants are taking a historical approach to global research topics.

We expect graduate students to complete their D.Phils. during their 4th year and to submit a chapter of their D.Phil. thesis to become part of the case study series on the Global History of Capitalism (<https://globalcapitalism.history.ox.ac.uk/case-studies>). We would also expect the holders of D.Phil. studentships to participate in the GHoC seminars and activities within Brasenose College. The Global History of Capitalism project is led by Prof. Christopher McKenna and Dr. Rowena Olegario and generously funded by external donors.

Funding Notes:

Successful applicants will receive a student bursary of £15,609 (the current RCUK bursary) per annum. D.Phil. continuation charges for both the University of Oxford (£528 per term) and Brasenose College (£132 per term) will also be covered.

Application Process:

A complete application will consist of the following emailed documents:

1. A letter describing your area of research interest, how your interests fit with the global history of capitalism, and your plans after completing your D.Phil.
2. A finished chapter from your D.Phil. thesis that relates to the global history of capitalism for potential publication as a case study.
3. Your current academic CV.
4. A supporting letter from your D.Phil. supervisor in Oxford.
